Intangible of Peace & Nature

The modern world is extremely fast-paced and consumed with personal lives. With this changing age, we are becoming more self-centred and moving from a collective “we” sense to “me and mine”, losing our individuality in the art of life.

People are becoming increasingly distracted, fleeing from responsibilities to preserve mother nature and culture. I, therefore, feel that we must connect our souls with nature, which helps us to maintain peace and live a balanced life. These are the canvases I have created out of my thoughts – a collection of paintings on different topics. I hope that everyone gets to realize the worth of life from the perspective of nature.
